NAME William Boyes	DESCRIPTION The Northeast Region of the ACS is offering a focused, specialized regional meeting on "Nanomaterials: Applications and Environmental Impacts": Due to their versatile properties, nanomaterials are expected to revolutionize our approaches to common problems. However, while nanotechnology has direct beneficial applications for medicine and the environment, it may have unintended effects that can adversely impact the human body and the natural ecosystem. This meeting will bring together scientists from different backgrounds to discuss new advances in the field of nanotechnology and examine the implications of nanomaterials on our health and on the environmental. NAME Robert Burgess	DESCRIPTION Dr. Burgess will serve as a member of the Stakeholder Board of the European Union funded SOLUTIONS project for the final General Assembly. In this role, he will provide constructive comments on how the project is functioning and give an outsider's perspective on the project's development and progress. The Stakeholder Board is constituted of experts from around the world who are interested in the results of the SOLUTIONS project in terms of the scientific and technological findings. The invitation e-mail and a draft agenda are attached. Further, this travel will serve as an opportunity for Dr. Burgess to meet with scientists from around Europe, China, Australia and Brazil, all with a specific interest in understanding how to identify contaminants that are adversely affecting the ecological and human health and sustainability of natural waters. This travel advances U.S. EPA's Office of International and Tribal Affairs (OITA) International Priorities in the following areas: (1) Expanding Access to Clean Water, (2) Reducing Exposure to Toxic Chemicals, and (3) Building Strong Environmental Institutions and Legal Structures. Further, without this mission critical travel, key ORD deliverables to the Program Offices (e.g., OSWER, OW, OCSPP) under ORD's research planning process could be delayed. The travel also contributes to U.S. foreign policy objectives with Europe, a region considered a key strategic partner under the IMPLEMENTING ARRANGEMENT between the European Commission and the U.S. EPA to Promote Cooperation on Environmental Research and Ecoinformatics as specifically described in the 2007 Science and Technology Agreement managed by the Department of State. Further, the travel contributes directly to achieving key accomplishments in a program (i.e., the SOLUTIONS project) which depends on critical U.S. EPA participation in an advisory role. Specifically, the travel is being performed in order for European and U.S. EPA scientists to gain a better understanding of which emerging	LOCATION Leipzig, Germany	UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH	Common carrier transportation	X		$3735.51

	contaminants represent the greatest environmental risks in the aquatic environment. The SOLUTIONS project brings together experts from Europe, South America, China and Australia and North America to discuss methods for monitoring the presence of and determining the environmental behavior and toxicological effects of conventional and emerging chemicals entering aquatic systems. Many of the emerging contaminants under consideration are of direct interest to the objectives of the U.S. EPA's ORD Safe and Sustainable Water Resources (SSWR) research program. Since the late 1990s, the presence of emerging contaminants in the waters of the United States has been recognized as a source of risk to human and ecological health as well as a source of uncertainty to the continued sustainability of these waters. Topics covered in this meeting are most relevant to the following components of the current SSWR research program: 3.02 Science to Support New or Revised Water Quality Criteria to Protect Human Health and Aquatic Life; Task 3.02C Development of innovative advanced tools and technologies to identify and quantify exposure to and/or effects of chemical and microbial contaminants including those of emerging concern for future human health and aquatic life criteria. Most of the travel costs are being paid for by the Germany for profit research facility, the UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH (a member of the SOLUTIONS research team). This funding is from a European Union research grant. Specifically, flights, lodging, local transportation, and most meals will be paid for by SOLUTIONS funding via the UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH. Cost to AED are estimated to be approximately $400.00. "In cash" reimbursement (see below) will involve Dr. Burgess providing a contact person in the U.S. EPA travel office with Dr. David López Herráez' (UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH) contact information. After the travel has occurred, Dr. Herráez will be requested by the travel office to transfer the reimbursement directly to the Agency travel account. Dr. Burgess will have already been reimbursed by the Agency's for his travel costs.

NAME Joshua Harrill	DESCRIPTION The workshop will be attended by expert scientists from academia, government and regulatory agencies and the (agro)chemicals, consumer products, and pharmaceutical industries. Its key objectives are to: Showcase how non-animal approaches are currently being used to enable and improve decision-making for chemical safety assessment, including the use of AOPs/mechanistic approaches and incorporation of exposure science. Increase awareness and acceptance of non-animal approaches to accelerate their uptake to support decision-making, particularly in a regulatory setting. Identify scientific gaps that if addressed could have a significant impact on the application and uptake of non-animal approaches. Encourage collaboration between sectors, to share knowledge and 'lessons learned' to maximize the impact of non-animal approaches and to improve safety and efficacy decision-making. NAME Ronald Hines	DESCRIPTION The Institute brings together scientists from academia, government, industry and NGOs from around the world to address the health and safety of people and our environment. HESI helps solve the most pressing risk and safety challenges facing humans and the environment today, including ways to lower patient risk, reduce the use of animals in testing, protect the environment, and enhance the safety of products and food we use every day. As a member of the HESI Emerging Issues Committee, Dr. Hines assists HESI in identifying the most important emerging environmental and health issues that can be addressed using the multi-sector and multidisciplinary methods championed by HESI. At this meeting the Emerging Issues Committee will meet with the HESI Board of Trustees to explore new and innovative approaches whereby the committee can identify and support solutions for emerging issues relevant to the organization. NAME Blake Schaeffer	DESCRIPTION Inland and near-shore coastal environments deliver multiple ecosystem services that benefit society, including food, water, energy, navigation and recreation resources that contribute to our economies, whilst also being crucial to regional and global-scale biogeochemical cycles. Freshwater availability is ranked among the greatest threat to global economy, and yet only a fraction of global	LOCATION Stirling, UK	University of Stirling	Common carrier transportation		X	$1800

	inland water systems are routinely monitored for water quality. The United Nations development agenda now fully recognises the importance of managing water resources to reach sustainable development goals (SDG 6, and related) and fosters collaboration across countries. Global Climate Observing System (GCOS) also recently deemed satellite-derived lake temperature, ice cover, and water-leaving reflectance as Essential Climate Variables. Data collection by EO satellites is expanding, and its suitability for observing inland and near-coastal water bodies makes remote sensing a valuable source of water quality data and ecosystem condition at local and global scales. The workshop marks the culmination of the six-year GloboLakes project funded by the UK Natural Environmental Research Council, featuring the latest applications of EO to inland and near-shore coastal waters at local, regional and global scales and contributions to improved water management, climate studies, and achieving SDGs. We will foster discussions of data and technology challenges, linkages between EO data providers and stakeholders, community-based water monitoring, and future GEO AquaWatch activities. The workshop will have presentations from many international projects and partnerships, providing unique opportunity to engage with the international water quality EO community.
